DISCLAIMER

The European Organisation for Astronomical Research in the Southern Hemisphere, ESO, maintains this website to inform the astronomical community, its staff and the general public about astronomical research in the southern hemisphere using ESO telescopes and instrumentation. The web site also includes information concerning on-going projects and developments to further enhance and enlarge ESO's observing facilities.

Neither ESO nor any other party involved in creating, producing or delivering the website shall be liable for any direct, incidental, consequential, indirect or punitive damages arising out of users' access to, or use of, the website and the information on the website. The publication of the information does not create any promise or obligation for ESO to procure anything or enter into any kind of contract with any user of the information of the website. The information provided by the website is given "as it is", and does not imply any guarantee, warranty or fit for any purpose, and ESO does not accept any responsibility or liability for any consequences with that regard.

The ESO website may contain links and references to third-party websites. These are provided for the convenience and interest of users and on the part of ESO this implies neither responsibility for, nor approval of, information contained in these websites. ESO makes no warranty, either express or implied, as to the accuracy, availability or content of information, text, graphics which are not under the 'eso.org' domain.

It is our goal to minimize disruption caused by technical errors related to the functioning of the ESO website. However, some information on our site may have been created or structured in files or formats that are not error-free and we cannot guarantee that our service will not be interrupted or otherwise affected by such problems. ESO accepts no responsibility with regard to such problems incurred as a result of using this site or any linked external sites.

The contents of the documentation available on the E-ELT website are intended for the non-commercial use of its users. ESO does not grant the right to resell or redistribute any of the documentation, including any information or images included in the documents, made available on the E-ELT website or to compile or create derivative works from these documents. All material published on the E-ELT website is protected by copyright and owned or controlled by ESO or the party credited as the provider of the content, software or other material.
